

IntelliCAD, Carlson and Autodesk Software – desktop software for land development professionals

We had just a few fits and starts with presentations and recordings but, yesterday, we finally wrapped up this 3-part series.

My goal with these webinars was to present an up-to-date overview and explain costs and licensing options for desktop software for surveyors, engineers, contractors and other land development professionals.

The recordings are available below. The “registration” process will ask for name and email address but, unless you’ve otherwise requested to be on my mailing list, I promise not to add you to my database.
